...A Tip Of The Hat To The Grayling Volunteer Firemen For A Job Well Done On The Fourth Of July Celebration

THE BATTLE IS ON—Water that is. Pictured above members of the department stage their annual water battle on main street. Even though the day was chilly, the huge crowd enjoyed the full day festivities.

A LITTLE TOO SLICK — Here two young fellows find the grease pole just a little too slippery and decided to take a swim. The celebration began with a huge parade down main street, with a spectacular fireworks display at dusk.

Marsack Freed On Bond

Peter R. Marsack, 17, of rural Roscommon, arrested on an open charge early Sunday morning, July 2nd, in the fatal shooting of Roger Hartman, 40, also rural Roscommon, was released Thursday from the Roscommon County Jail on $2,500 bond.

Crawford County Prosecuting Attorney Ward Ellison last week authorized a warrant charging Marsack with murder. Marsack appeared before Justice of the Peace Olin Williamson and posted bond.

His court-appointed attorney, James McNally of Higgins Lake, demanded examination, for which no date was set. However, it is likely, Ellison said, that the examination would probably be held in August.

The bond was set at a low figure because it is the policy of the State to encourage posting of bond, and in this particular case it would have been extremely difficult for the family to have posted any higher sum.

Hartman's body was found, shot through the heart, lying in the middle of Pioneer Road in South Branch township near Chase Bridge Road about 3 o'clock Sunday morning. Deputies reported Marsack appeared shortly after 3 at the sheriff's office in Roscommon and stated, "I just shot a man," and surrendered himself to authorities.

4-H NOTICE

LARGE CROWD ENJOYS DAY

Tuesday, July 4th, turned out to be a day of fun for the many, many people who took part in the Grayling Fire Department's planned entertainment, in spite of little cooperation from the weather. With temperatures in the low 50's, folks just put on their jackets and joined in the celebration. For this, the Firemen express their great appreciation, also to the American Legion, Bob LaMotte Sr., Gus Williams, Jack Millikin and Bob Nelson for their helping out in the Department's fund-raising campaign, and last but far from least, their thanks to all who helped make the parade such a success, especially the Grayling High Band which under direction of Leroy Christian turned in an exceptionally fine performance, and especially the members of the 107th Armored Cavalry, Ohio National Guard, who led the parade.

Winners in the day's events started with Pete Funck of Grayling, who received $10 as winner of the greased pole walk, also Dan McIsaac, 13, and Robert Sheppard, 13, both of Grayling, and both winners of $5, and Norman Bancroft, 23, of Grayling, winner of $10 also.

In the sack race Susie Burns, 8, and Susan Meoak, 12, each won $5. In the foot race Kim Walker, 8, of East Lansing, won $5, Bill Horning, 12, of Grayling, won $5, and Ed Distelhart, 13, of Port Huron also won $5.

The mother and daughter team of Mrs. Ken Laeder and Linda were winners of $5 in the egg toss contest, and father and son team of Clayton and Mitchell Hildebrandt also won $5. Paul Mauren and Louis Nielson, 16, both of Grayling, also won $5. These two boys were winners of the same event last year. Mike McNamara, 13, and John Thompson, 10, won $2 in the egg toss.

Winner of the aluminum fishing boat was Norvin Roberts of Sandusky, Michigan. Mrs. Gene R. Whitman of Mt. Morris received the gift certificate, and Robert Dandy of Grayling won the $25 savings bond.

The Firemen have already begun their plans for next year's celebration, and make the observation that if anyone has not donated to their fund and would like to do so, may contact any member of the Department.

Letters of Interest

To the Firemen and Citizens of Grayling, Michigan: Congratulations on a wonderful July 4 celebration. It was a day that I am sure my boys will always remember. Starting with the parade and ending at the dance was quite a big day. With all the work and time spent we wanted you to know it was appreciated.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Thomas Anton,
Grosbeak Pointe Park, Mich.
P. S. Looking forward to next year.

Next week's meeting will be held at the Chief Shoppenagons Motor Hotel.

Visitors Praise Camp Program

During the past week a number of visitors, as well as the inspectors from the Federal Government, reviewed the Crawford County Summer Day Camp Program being conducted by the local school system. The Director of the Huron County Title I summer program visited the Grayling program on Monday, July 3rd. He was interested in comparing the local program with that of Huron County.

The variety of activities conducted by the Grayling program received special praise from the visitors. One of the activities that received special praise was the participation of the camp youngsters in the naming of the camp pet. This is an activity that has been read and recorded on the tape recorder are "The Glorious Whitehorse" by Mark Twain and "David Swan" by Nathaniel Hawthorne. At the present time the classes are working on "Little Girls Are Wiser Than Men" by Leo Tolstoy. The plays are directed by Carl Minor, Miss Karen Mauren, and Mrs. Pam Fallon. The recorded plays are played back so the youngsters have an opportunity to hear themselves and thus improve their reading skills. Others are performed in the classroom or on stage.

On Friday, July 7th, inspectors from the Title I program were present to review the local program. They spent several hours visiting the classes and discussing the program with the director and staff. They had high praise for the use being made of the equipment provided for the summer camp, such as the language laboratory kits, tape recorder, overhead projectors, film and slide projectors, as well as the education games used in reading and arithmetic improvement. They were especially well pleased with the large variety of equipment provided and used in the recreation portion of the summer program.

Visitors were intrigued with the cultural excursions planned for the summer program. They were especially interested in the family dinner planned for the youngsters and their parents at the end of the summer. At that time awards will be presented to students.

There will be a Bloodmobile in Grayling August 1st, from noon until 6 p. m. at the Legion Hall.

Crawford County Recreational Activities

If warm weather continues, the Caddis Hatch on all sections of AuSable River system should begin anew. Cool weather of last week stopped all evening activity of flies. Late evening fly activity on quality fishing areas should be good with Hatching Caddis fly to use. Early morning fishing should be good with Spent Caddis. Daytime hatches have slowed with Madsen's Skunks the only fly consistently being used and taking fish. Good catches of trout are still being taken by bait fishermen on the Upper Manistee River, East Branch of the AuSable, and Big Creek.

Pan fishing is good on Lake Margrothe, KP Lake, Shupac Lake, Kneff Lake, and Jones Lake. Also, there is some activity on trout in Bright, Glory and Horseshoe Lakes.

Daytime canoeing and canoe-camping is excellent on all canoeing trails of the county. Patient canoeers have a fine opportunity to observe wildlife and birdlife along the banks of canoeing waters in early morning hours. Insects are at a minimum.

The bumper crop of buckbeetles, appears to be 10 days away from ripening stage.

Litter Pick Up Necessary After The Fact

By Willard Bosserman
County Extension Natural Resource Agent

Litter pick up, or cleaning of litter from the river or a lake is necessary because some people are careless users of natural resources. It seems there would be a lot less picking of litter if people were educated or trained not to be litter bugs. If this statement seems trite, perhaps the question of how to do the job may be more important.

4-H Club members in Crawford and Roscommon Counties last year learned that littering damages the aesthetic value of our resources. Unless volunteer groups have litter pick up campaigns, the cost to hire the job done would be terrific.

The adult mind is too often closed to suggestions that they change their careless ways. Might an investment in teaching youth the value of preserving nature's beauty be a wise one? The 4-H club program reached only half of the sixth graders last year.

In the program the Cooperative Extension Service supplies the educational materials.

The actual teaching varies from this point. One method is for volunteer 4-H club leaders to teach conservation of natural resources out of school. The most children are reached when it is taught as part of the fifth and sixth grade curriculum in school. The teacher can use the material as a supplement to the science class. The writing can be graded as part of the English lesson.

The Grayling elementary school had an ideal set up. Mr. Carl Hatfield and Mrs. Marie Akers taught science for all 180 fifth and sixth graders. They included the conservation project as part of the science curriculum.

Miss Heidi Matthias and myself cooperate with the schools in their conservation projects.

Mercy Hospital News

Patients in Mercy Hospital this week included Margaret Balch, Frank Bond, Lillian Guinto, Ken Hayden, Kenneth Jackson, Virginia Laurent, Patricia Moggo, Birdie Reigle, Henry Stephan, Dorothy Sillwag, Ethel Berry, Henry Bradley, Katherine Deckrow, Leo Nill, Walter Truetter, of Grayling; Franklin Newberry, Frederic.

A baby girl was born July 10 to Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Cox of Frederic. She weighed in at 6 lbs. 15 oz.

Michigan Here For Two Weeks

After a one-week slowdown at Camp Grayling, Michigan's 46th Infantry Division, commanded by Major General Cecil L. Simmons, will move in Saturday morning to begin their final annual field training at Camp Grayling during the period July 15 through 29th.

Approximately 6,600 officers and enlisted men will begin to arrive in the early hours July 15th to ready themselves for the two weeks of intensive training. This number will include 1,000 U. S. A. R. personnel who will fill existing vacancies in the Division structure.

Units attached to the 46th Division this year will include Special Force Units from Detroit, Chicago and San Francisco, the 38th Aviation Battalion of the Indiana National Guard, the 113th Armor Battalion from Iowa, the 522nd ASA Company and the 425th Chemical Detachment.

This summer's use will be the 53rd annual training encampment at Camp Grayling.

Shotgunners Break Week-Old Mark

Shooting Sunday at the new Bellaire range, the Grayling Sportsman's Club trap team broke the Northern Michigan Trap League record they had set just one week earlier. Shooting half the birds from the 26-yard line they broke 224 out of 250 to eclipse the record of 222. Bellaire was second in the match with a 223.

Grayling now leads the League with 20 more birds than second place Gaylord. High man for Grayling was Duane LaMotte with 47 out of 50. Next was Gideon Robarge with 46/50, John Battson 45/50, William Schramm 44/50 and Curly LaMotte with 42/50.

Trapshooting is now open to the public at the Sportsman's Club on Wednesday evenings at 6 p. m. and Friday nights under the lights at 10 p. m.

Boy Scout News

Boy Scout Troop 77 canoed down the AuSable River this past week. The troop camped overnight at Canoe Harbor where they held a Court of Honor promoting eight boys in rank.

Receiving their Tenderfoot Badges were Michael Handricks, Robert Johnson, Joseph Lawe and Harold Strause. Four boys received Second Class Badges, James Bobenmoyer, Michael Hall, Robert Lawe and Mitchell Millikin. Two members of the troop, James Alef and Patrick Gorman, were reviewed and passed their Second Class requirements and will receive their badges at a later date.

Troop 77 concluded their canoe trip at Stephan's Bridge. Scoutmaster Ken Carlisle was assisted by Louie Johnson and George Matyn. Don Jansen, Chairman of the Scout Committee for Kiwanis, was present for the Court of Honor.

The Gene Rauch, Jerry Walker and Charles Ficht families are spending this week's camping at Oscego Lake.

This state's hunter force, up about 33,000 from the 1965 fiscal year, purchased 1,294,280 licenses, permits, and stamps at a gross cost of $5,722,960, which also ranked second to Pennsylvania.

Nationwide, there were nearly 35.7 million hunters and fishermen who spent a record $14.4 million in various fees for their licenses and stamps.

NEW SHAPES

Changes in education prompt changes in school architecture. Accompanying new math, instructional television and teaching machines are new concepts in school design, flexibility and function.

Sliding classroom walls provide enclosures for small groups or individual instruction. They open to accommodate larger audiences.

School libraries are equipped with tape recorders and teaching machines. They serve as general instructional and material centers.

Even school grounds, once divided neatly into shrubbed approaches to building and playground areas, give way to landscaped outdoor classrooms. Ponds aid in the study of wild life. A wide variety of trees and plants are used by botany enthusiasts.

Pie-shaped classrooms, leading to a central core which houses an electronic learning center and TV facilities, are examples of today's school construction. Such classrooms are found in the circular Douglas MacArthur Elementary School in Southfield. With the exception of kindergarten and first-grade rooms, all classrooms are open at the center tip to provide free access to the learning center.

Jackson's Parkside High School features a combination of a dozen buildings connected by corridors. Each building holds classrooms and equipment for specific subject area study. The school can be expanded by adding new wings, yet the architectural image is not impaired.

Eastern High School in Detroit uses the same pattern but for a different purpose. Called the house-type plan, each building is a school in itself and accommodates 800 students. Youths in the inner-city can enjoy the familiarity and friendliness of a smaller school, while the concentrated population of the area is served on a single school site and shares common facilities.

Disadvantaged youngsters in Grand Rapids begin their school experiences with four or five in a building separate from the regular school. While exposed to the broadening experiences of school learning, they are sheltered from the initial bewilderment of regular classrooms.

A new, multi-story junior high school in Mt. Pleasant has installed V-shaped projecting window bays which give students a panoramic view but cut down blackboard glare and interference with artificial lighting caused by conventional flat windows.

Tree groves, pond and bog areas are part of the "outdoor classroom" landscaping of schools in Coldwater and Ann Arbor. In addition to science ventures, the areas are used by art classes for sketching, applications of mathematics for measurements and surveying, astronomy and for creative approaches to teaching many other subjects.

HARDWARE TRENDS

The old corner hardware is quickly disappearing from the American scene. In its place, according to a recent study by the Hardware Retailer magazine and the National Retail Hardware Association, is emerging a larger structure with better lighting, better parking and professional management.

The advent of discount stores brought new competition to the hardware retailers. They are warned that this most severe competitor must be faced with new methods of merchandising and management if hardware stores are to survive.

Two types of retailing seem to be developing from the hardware industry: the well-kept, well-designed store which offers customer service and convenience and the "junk" merchandising store. The latter heaps goods in baskets and on counters and operates on the "low-margin," discount-selling psychology.

Too many hardware stores will try to operate on the "middle-ground," NRHA maintains, and there's no middle-ground left. A store must either be neat and attractive or a cut-rate, low-price operation.

While some hardware owners are reluctant to change, many operators are improving their stores and modes of operations.

New lines, mass displays, better in-training of personnel, larger stores, sharper merchandising and advertising attempt to bring a new image to the hardware.

Many of the 1,250 hardware stores in Michigan purchase merchandise from "buying groups" in order to keep prices competitive. Membership in a group usually allows owners to retain independent control of stores but benefit from mass buying. Six major groups operate in the state and help supply some 30,000 items to the average store.

Gross sales for hardware retailers in Michigan average $150,000 to $200,000 annually.

Overall, hardware retailing has become big business and hardware associations are trying to "professionalize" it.

Hardware magazines, wholesalers and dealer associations constantly offer tips on streamlining operations and promote ideas for professional management. Clinics and trade meetings point out advantages of adopting the "new look in retailing."

Harold Schumacher, manager-treasurer of the MRHA, stresses that today's hardware dealer must constantly analyze his competition, his own operation and his customers in order to effectively evaluate future plans. "Every year there is less hope for the hardware store which refuses to change with the times," Schumacher said.

HEALTH

By Albert E. Heustis, M.D. Director
Michigan Department of Public Health

The lure of out-of-door living gets very strong this time of year for many Michigan folks. They are packing up right now, to head out into the woods to get some welcome relief from the daily grind of earning a living. They will return home after their vacation with a fresh outlook on life — that is if they have prepared for the pitfalls of "roughing it."

Now, it's no fun to be sick, and it's especially miserable if it occurs on your vacation. So I'm going to suggest a few tips that might come in handy when you and your family are out in those beautiful woods.

Nearly every camper suffers minor cuts and bruises at times during his outing. The most important thing for you to remember about treating these cuts is to treat them. Even a small skin break can be dangerous because it can allow the entrance of disease-producing organisms. You can treat ordinary cuts with a number of effective antiseptic ointments that are generally available; however, such treatment does not always prevent the ever lurking danger of tetanus infections. So be sure your tetanus immunization is up to date at all times and especially when you leave for the woods.

Another common ailment among vacationers in digestive upset, or just plain stomachache. This may be caused by excitement, eating too fast, eating different foods, the change in drinking water, and erratic meal schedules. If it is severe enough you may find yourself with stomach cramps and diarrhea. Several remedial drugs are available and you should be sure to take them along on your trip. If the pain persists, see a doctor as soon as possible, it may be a case of food-borne poisoning which can be extremely serious if not treated.

I would also like to caution you against two plants that can make a wonderful vacation into a time of sheer torture — namely, poison ivy and poison oak. You should learn the characteristic leaf structure of both plants, if you are going to avoid them. Poison ivy and poison oak leaves both grow in clusters of three on each twig.

Poison ivy grows as a woody vine or shrub trailing along the ground, or an erect shrub. The stems look like fuzzy ropes and the leaves are either smooth or have notched edges. Poison oak grows in the form of a low shrub, and its slender branches often have a downy look. The center leaflet has an "oak-leaf" appearance, although the plant is actually a variety of poison ivy.

Both plants cause a burning and itching sensation, followed by a rash and swelling, and sometimes blisters. If you suspect your hands or any part of your body has come in contact with either plant, wash the areas with strong soap. Leave the lather on for several minutes. If this does not prevent infection, a calamine lotion will help to ease the itching sensation. Do not use water, oily ointments or alcoholic solutions — they won't do a bit of good.

If you follow the foregoing tips, and take along a well stocked first-aid kit on your camping trip, the chances are you will spend a delightful time in the woods. And that's how it should

It On the Youngsters

There is increasing comment in the newspapers of the growing crime wave across the nation. You of pitched battles of various groups with the streets or on college campuses.

It is now reported that children in the 11 to 16 group commit half of all property offenses, and criminals arrested the most frequent age is 15. According to an AP dispatch from Los Angeles, age has recommended for women an arsenal of protecting their lives and virtue. Of course, can't carry them concealed she said. She felt pin would not be construed as a concealed weapon. In the meantime, to combat the alarming in teen-age crime, the President is urging federal and local authorities to take action.

While all this is going on, it is time for parents to take their children in hand and begin to teach to keep their hands off other people and other people's property. The same thought could be put at the opening of school classes each day, simple little admonition could eventually save the suffering and grief for children, parents and public.

"Honestly, I'm not a complaining woman. But I'm tired of messy defrosting! Tired of waiting for the great 'spring thaw'—then mopping the kitchen afterward. Tired of being embarrassed because I ran out of ice cubes at a party...of doing the 'water watusi' as I try to balance a brimming tray between the refrigerator and sink. It would take a magician to get enough food for entertaining and holiday time into my little, round-shouldered relic. Wouldn't it be grand to never have to defrost again?"

fourth week of summer camping for junior and teenage youth.

ing, the girls leader Rilla Tol and boys director Chuck Winnins.
This week 110 early teen girls
are at the camp. They came Sunday by buses and private cars from all parts of the lower peninsula. A camp for the youth of the upper peninsula is conducted at Clear Lake near Shingleton.

Each day's religious activities
begin with Morning Watch, and later in the day comes Camp
Council. To close the day there is the Campfire service with singing, nature nuggets, and stories. Camp pastor for this week is Roy Lemon from East
Lansing.

All the young people participate in crafts and Nature Lore.
Craft director this year is Keith
Turner and naturalist is Glenna Jewkes. Swimming classes are taught each day under the direction of life guard Dave Beardsley. Sailing and canoeing are also taught by Harold Jewkes.

Food is a vital part of a camping experience. Melyin and Joyce Rosen are responsible for the satisfied appetites of the enthusiastic hungry girls and boys.
Bread is baked daily in the camp
bakery by Dianna Pagett.

Each camper may enjoy a
canoe trip down the AuSable River. Counselors and instructors accompany youth on these trips.

The regular camps will continue until near the end of August
at which time weekend groups
will begin coming. It is a year-round program where youth and their friends enjoy a camping
experience.

Letters Of Interest

Recently the Crawford County Road Commission completed a Multi-Plate Pipe Arch
bridge to replace the old Twin Bridges over the North Branch.
Following is a letter received
recently by the Commission.

June 30, 1967
Mr. Howard Mead, Chairman-
Crawford Co. Road Commission
Grayling, Michigan.

Recently one of your road
crews completed the installation
of four tubes and enlargement
of the road bed at the Twin Bridge on the North Branch of the AuSable River.

I think you and this crew
should be commended for the manner in which the task was completed without interfering
with the angling on the river.
I have not heard a single complaint from any anglers that the work caused any difficulty in fishing, and I know from my personal fishing that there was no roll from fill operations by the time the waters were one-
fourth mile downstream.

The modernization of this bridge and roadbed, as it was carried out, is proof that we can have progress without damaging
a natural resource, if some care
and thought is applied.

Sincerely yours,
David S. Shetter, In Charge

CAMP AU SABLE ACTIVITIES

Camp AuSable is now in its fourth week of summer camping for junior and teenage youth.
Camp director is Merrill Floming, the girls leader Rilla Tol and boys director - Chuck Winnas.
This week 110 early teen girls
are at the camp. They came Sunday by buses and private
cars from all parts of the lower peninsula. A camp for the youth of the upper peninsula is conducted at Clear Lake near Shingleton.

Each day's religious activities
begin with Morning Watch, and
later in the day comes Camp
Council. To close the day there is the Campfire service with singing, nature nuggets, and
stories. Camp pastor for this week is Roy Lemon from East
Lansing.

All the young people participate in crafts and Nature Lore.
Craft director this year is Keith
Turner and naturalist is Glenna
Jewkes. Swimming classes are taught each day under the direction of life guard Dave Beards-
ley. Sailing and canoeing are also taught by Harold Jewkes.

Food is a vital part of a camping experience. Melvin and Joyce Rosen are responsible for
the satisfied appetites of the enthusiastic hungry girls and boys.
Bread is baked daily in the camp
bakery by Dianna Pagett.

Each camper may enjoy a
canoe trip down the AuSable
River. Counselors and instructors accompany youth on these trips.

The regular camps will continue until near the end of August
at which time weekend groups
will begin coming. It is a year-
round program where youth and
their friends enjoy a camping
experience.

and friends (28) gathered on July 4 at Al Harland's (Beaver

her 75th birthday. Two cakes were decorated with flags. One thing she wanted this day was to have her picture taken under the oak tree on the former Jennings property in AuSagra Acres

those present were: Mr. and

Letters Of Interest

Recently the Crawford County Road Commission completed a Multi-Plate Pipe Arch
bridge to replace the old Twin
Bridges over the North Branch.
Following is a letter received
recently by the Commission.

June 30, 1967

Mr. Howard Mead, Chairman-
Crawford Co. Road Commission
Grayling, Michigan.

Recently one of your road
crews completed the installation
of four tubes and enlargement
of the road bed at the Twin Bridge on the North Branch of
the AuSable River.

I think you and this crew
should be commended for the manner in which the task was completed without interfering
with the angling on the river.
I have not heard a single complaint from any anglers that the
work caused any difficulty in fishing, and I know from my personal fishing that there was no roil from fill operations by
the time the waters were one-
fourth mile downstream.

The modernization of this
bridge and roadbed, as it was carried out, is proof that we can
have progress without damaging
a natural resource, if some care
and thought is applied.

Sincerely yours,

David S. Shetter, In Charge

America the Beautiful... Is Everybody's Job

It's the job of every family that spreads a picnic on a roadside table. It's the job of every boatman who cruises the lakes and waterways. Every driver, every walker, every flier. That's why our Association throws its wholehearted support each year into the Keep America Beautiful campaign.

Only country we have here. Let's keep it that way. UNITED STATES BREWERS ASSOCIATION, INC.

"Honey, come here and sit down," said Dorothy. "I want to talk to you."
She said it in that tone of voice that wives reserve for special occasions. Like when hubby goes out and buys an unauthorized fly rod, thereby damaging the family budget. You guys all know what we mean.
Only thing, we hadn't bought a new rod or much of anything else lately. We suspected, though, that we were about to get the worst of a bad bargain, so with foreboding we sat down.
"I've been reading your outdoor columns," she said. "and I'm pretty interested in what you say about hunting and fishing being just for recreation."
We brightened considerably at that, for it's a well-known fact that the wives of outdoor writers seldom get around to reading what they write. A lot of other people might read it, but not a wife.
Obviously, this was merely the build-up for the fall. She continued: "If hunting and fishing are for recreation and it really isn't important whether you bring home any game or fish, then why is it necessary to have all of that expensive equipment to hunt and fish with?"
As we pondered for an answer, she continued: "Just look at the stuff you need to go duck hunting. You have to have a boat, motor, decoys, special shells, special shotgun, portable blind, a dog to fetch your ducks (if you ever shoot any), special clothes, hip boots and decoys."
"You said decoys twice," we protested weakly.
"Well, for as many decoys as you have, I should mention them twice," she said. "And look at the way you load down the car just to go fishing. Why you need a dozen rods and reels, I'll never know, and that's only the start. You have landing nets, hundreds of sure-fire baits that you've never even had in the water, waders, leaders, bobbers, sink-

A TASTE OF COLLEGE

Been to college? Ever wanted to find out what it's like? Or maybe you have been before.

Well, in either case, now is the time to catch up on what is new. From July 25th to 28th, you can spend four days on Michigan State University campus in East Lansing, Michigan, by attending College Week For Women.

College Week For Women is an annual event designed to bring you up-to-date information.

During this time, you can attend classes on various topics, go to assemblies and take tours of the campus. If you like you can receive lodging right on campus for a minimal fee.

If you can't get away for four days, why not drive down on Thursday, July 27th, for Young Homemakers' Day. I guarantee there will be fun for all.

Write to the Cooperative Extension Service, County Building, Roscommon, Michigan 48653 or call me at 275-5043. I'd be glad to give you more information.

Remember, this may be your only chance to get so much up-to-date information, in such a short time, that is until next year when it is time for College Week for Women again.

Moose Lodge Activities

Our "Burn the Mortgage" campaign is off to a roaring start. Almost three hundred dollars have been donated so far.

Saturday the Garden City degree team put on an enrollment at the lodge. There was also a district meeting the same evening. The next district meeting will be at Manistee, with a picnic at the new lodge picnic area. Sunday members who hold the Fellowship Degree held their annual picnic in our area. Members came from all over the state.

We would like it to be known that the refrigerator was donated by Fuelgas Co. and grill by Consumers Power Co., for our concession stand on July 4th.

On the sick list this week, Earl Gierke is still at Mercy Hospital, also Jim Stephan.

The Lodge appreciates those members who helped with civic affairs and at the concession stand, also the people that weren't members, who so willingly helped on July 4th.

July 23rd, is the Legion of the Moose frolic, at the new Bay City lodge.

On July 29 the degree team travels outside the U. S. for the first time when they go to Windsor, Canada for degree work there. They have also been selected to do the degree work at the U. P. convention in September.

Our annual lodge picnic will be held at Log Lake, near Kalkaska, on Sunday, Aug. 27. Marv Forbes is chairman.
